5. To support a greener future and embrace digital advances, the Journal has switched to an online-only format with effective from 2024 and would continue to publish four issues annually on a quarterly basis. Articles would be available on our website as soon as they are ready before they are collated in an issue. This would enable readers to access the most up-to-date research and insights in a timely manner, which articles would be featured separately as well as in an issue that would be accessible with just one click.

6. As HKJR had switched to an online-only format, the advertisement policy was reviewed by the Editorial Board. The digital issue advertising and website advertising by placing lower banners on HKJR website were included. Special bundle discounts would be offered for those long-term sponsors of booking both digital issue advertising and website advertising. The new HKJR advertising policy was endorsed by the Council with effective from 21 June 2024.
